

WHAT Sex FEELS LIKE FOR A GUY

The Triggers and Sensations You'd Never Imagine (PLUS: How to Take His Pleasure to the Max)

Little Words and Gestures All Men Crave

Cosmo-Style

The South Beach Diet

Peel Off 7 Pounds Fast

His Hidden Hot Spots

Including the V-Zone, a Lusty Scale We've Only Just Discovered

50 Ways to Look Summer-Sexy

Jessica Simpson

This Say-Anything Star

TRICK OF THE MONTH Fake It...

when you're totally clueless.

Keep cool. Don't panic when you're put on the spot. "Take a few seconds of silence to compose yourself," says Jennifer Kushell, author of Secrets of the Young and Successful.

Stall 'em. Try to buy yourself time when stumped. "Say something like 'I'm just finishing up another project. Can I get back to you?'" adds Kushell.

Get more info. If asked a baffling question, Kushell recommends you reply "I'd be happy to prepare a report on that. So I'm on target, exactly what type of research do you need?"

Nix the middleman. If your boss brings you a query from a client, suggest you talk directly to the customer so you can do some fast fact-hunting first.

